The following is the equation used to calculate the standard deviation for a list of integers.

Steps:

1. Find the mean of the set of integers.

2. Subtract each of the integers by the mean and square the difference.

3. Add these outcomes up and divide the sum by the number of integers.

4. Square root the divisor and you have your standard deviation.

$\sigma = \sqrt{\mu_2}$